Special Educational Needs (SEND) and Disability Information report

DATE: SEPTEMBER 2018
REVISION DATE: SEPTEMBER 2019

Information report: Meeting the needs of students with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND) at Sutton Coldfield Grammar School for Girls

Ethos

Sutton Coldfield Grammar School for Girls has an inclusive ethos and works in partnership with students, parents and other agencies to provide the best possible educational outcomes. We have high expectations of all our students and put support in place at the earliest possible stage where it is needed.

Leadership

All SEND provision is overseen by the SENDCO/Assistant Head working closely with the Heads of Year team. SEND provision is monitored, reviewed and evaluated on a regular basis throughout the year and is reported to the school Governing Body. The report includes how individual needs are being met and how SEN funding is being spent e.g. on specialist services and resources.

School Policies

The following policies, available on our website, reflect the school's commitment to inclusion, safety and wellbeing of all our students:

Special Educational Needs Policy

Equal Opportunities Policy

Inclusion Policy incorporating Disability Discrimination Policy and Accessibility plan

Supporting Students with Medical Conditions Policy

Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy

Health and Safety Policy

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS FROM PARENTS/CARERS

1. What kinds of Special Educational Needs are provided for?

Special Educational Needs are categorised under four broad areas of need:

Communication and Interaction

Cognition and Learning

Social, Emotional and Mental Health Difficulties

Sensory and/or physical needs

At Sutton Coldfield Grammar School for Girls we focus on inclusive teaching and make the reasonable adjustments required to welcome all our students.

2. What are the school's policies for identifying students with SEN and assessing their needs?

During the transition from primary school, we gather information from primary school staff as well as parents in order to ensure that our members of staff are well informed, in readiness for the beginning of Year 7. Year 7 students complete baseline tests in reading, writing, and mathematics. Data is shared to support interventions with students who have gaps in their progress. This facilitates early interventions. Any identified SEN will form part of this information. We follow the 'Assess, Plan, Do, Review' cycle.

Mid-year identification occurs as a result of ongoing monitoring and via clear and explicit lines of communication. Form Tutors and Heads of Year are made aware of concerns raised regarding students in their care, which feeds into the identification process. We work closely with students, parents and healthcare professionals to identify their needs and ensure that the correct interventions are engaged.

3. What are the arrangements for consulting parents of students with SEND and involving them in their child's education?

During each stage of a student's education, there are opportunities to attend Progress Evenings for one-to-one meetings with teaching staff. There are information evenings at different times in the year including an Induction Evening for Year 7 parents, transition meetings, careers evenings and curriculum updates. We offer opportunities for parents to share their views via questionnaires and surveys. Parents of students with SEND play an important role in the development of their child's Pupil Profile (the document that contains all details of their child's strengths, needs, strategies and intervention which is circulated to teaching staff) and its regular review during the school year.

4. What are the arrangements for consulting students with SEND and involving them in their education?

Students play a leading part in the development of their Pupil Profile (as above). They attend all the meetings, (initial and review), and are asked to contribute their thoughts and feelings regarding their needs and our intervention/support. They have several opportunities in different forums, Student Forum and Student Voice activities, to express their views and opinions about all aspects of their education and school life.

5. What are the arrangements for assessing and reviewing students' progress towards outcomes?

We ensure that the outcomes and targets agreed on Pupil Profiles are achievable and measurable and reviewed regularly. During the review meetings with parents and students, a range of data is used to assess the student's progress towards their targets. This may be data relating to attainment, attendance, behaviour or improving emotional health and well-being and will include the most up-to-date information from teachers on performance in lessons. This ensures that the intervention, differentiation and support being offered are relevant and appropriate to that student.

6. What are the arrangements for supporting students in moving between phases of education and in preparing for adulthood?

The Pupil Profile system ensures that students with special educational needs are supported through the transitions they will face. The Head of Year 7 works closely with primary schools to ensure that the move to the school is as seamless as possible. At Post 16 and Post 18 stages, students receive a one-to-one meeting where their intentions are discussed and advice is offered. Students with special educational needs and disabilities are offered appointments with the Careers Advisor from Year 9 onwards.

7. What is the approach to teaching students with SEND?

The approach to teaching all students at Sutton Coldfield Grammar School for Girls is high quality, inclusive, differentiated teaching. The Pupil Profiles ensure that teachers are aware of the students with special educational needs, the differentiation they require and the support or adaptations they may need. Staff are given training and support from specialist teachers and external agencies.

8. How are adaptations made to the curriculum and the learning environment of students with SEND?

During the initiation of a Pupil Profile, advice is taken from Health Care professionals, parents and the student on how the curriculum may need to be adjusted to best fit the student's needs. This is done on a case-by-case basis but may include reducing the number of GCSE entries through offering Supported Study sessions. There are research groups with both staff and student members who have investigated our learning environment from the perspective of students with special educational needs and this has led to staff training and informed teaching and learning.

9. How are staff trained to support students with SEND and how is specialist expertise secured?

The SENDCO contributes to whole-staff training to ensure that SEND knowledge and pedagogy is relevant and updated. The SENDCO also provides regular updates on the needs of the students, and enlists the support of specialists in SEND for staff training such as the Educational Psychologist and the Communications and Autism Team e.g. staff have received AET Level One training and some have Level Two. The aim is to build capacity throughout the staff to ensure that good SEND practice is the norm. We have Learning Mentors who support our students and staff.

10. How is the effectiveness of the provision made for students with SEND evaluated?

Evaluation occurs through the Pupil Profile Review meetings. The agreed 'measurable targets' are compared with progress data alongside the information that has been gathered from all those contributing to the support of the student. The student and parents play a large part in this evaluation. Student and Parent Voice questionnaires also contribute to this evaluation. The effectiveness of the provision made for students with SEND across the school is evaluated by the SENDCO/Assistant Head responsible for teaching and learning and the Deputy Headteacher (responsible for Staff and Student Welfare), as part of the school's Provision Management.

11. How are students with SEND enabled to engage in the activities available with other students?

All students are given the opportunity to participate in a wide range of activities. Students with SEND are offered the same opportunities as all students and the necessary, reasonable adjustments are made to ensure that all activities are inclusive.

12. What support is available for improving emotional and social development, including extra pastoral support for listening to the views of students with SEND and measures to prevent bullying?

There is strong pastoral support that begins with the student's Form Tutor, with whom they meet every morning and who delivers the PSHE programme in Year seven and eight. The Form Tutor and Head of Year follow the form as they move through the year groups, in order that a strong relationship is forged and a good understanding of the students' needs is gained. The Heads of Year are trained in a wide range of pastoral and SEND issues and meet regularly to share good practice. Mentoring is available for all year groups, offering support for students in a variety of emotional, social and academic issues.

There is an 'open door' policy so that students are able to speak with whomever they feel most comfortable and parents are encouraged to contact the school immediately any concerns arise. Bullying is not tolerated and expectations of behaviour are high. Diversity and difference are issues that are taught through the PSHE programme in every year group and diversity is celebrated in the school.

13. How does the school involve other bodies, including health and social care bodies, local authority services and voluntary sector organisations in meeting the students' special educational needs and supporting their families?

We work closely with other services to ensure the needs of our students are met. The Educational Psychologist will work directly with students and parents but also delivers staff training. Pupil and School Support help with the identification process of students with special educational needs and have also delivered staff training. The Communications and Autism Team have delivered the AET Level 1 training to staff and support students and staff with the support and intervention we provide. The Vision and Hearing loss teams have delivered training sessions and offer ongoing support for students with regular visits. Staff training also delivered from the training Director of the ADHD Foundation.

They also offer support to parents and families we make them aware of. CAMHS provide support and advice to the school, the students and their parents and contribute to Pupil Profile meetings. The School Nurse Team contribute to the delivery of the PHSE programme, offer a drop-in service for students and assist us with identifying health issues such as hearing tests. We employ Forward Mentoring Service to provide a drop-in service at lunchtime and one-to-one meetings with selected students requiring extra emotional support.

14. What are the arrangements for handling complaints from parents of students with SEN about the provision made by the school?

Please contact the SENDCO or the Deputy Headteacher (Student and Staff Well-being) on 0121 354 1479.
